

Cultural and Creative Study Holidays
Practical art and appreciation
for adults

Guided visits to galleries in London and Cambridge, with practical workshops alongside English language tuition.

Overview

Tate Britain, London

Royal Academy of Arts, London

Stained Glass Museum, Ely Cathedral

This Study Holiday offers the opportunity to explore some of the best of Britain's creative culture, as well as developing your language skills. The schedule includes practical workshops in art and craft, and guided visits to galleries and museums. All activities and excursions will be accompanied and directed in English, enabling you to learn and communicate through practical experience.

Our base in the cathedral city of Ely is ideally placed for visits to galleries and museums in London, Cambridge, Norwich and other places of historic and cultural significance.

Workshops

The study holiday will include practical workshops in arts and crafts – opportunities include an introduction to designing and making stained glass at the Stained Glass Museum at Ely Cathedral, a workshop in ceramics or textile art at a nearby Arts centre, and a life-drawing session*.

\(Specific workshops will depend on availability for selected dates, and on your preferences!).*

Tuition

Practical classes and gallery/cultural visits will be directed by Rosalind Lyons, an experienced artist and lecturer in art and design. Rosalind has a BA, MA and PhD in Fine Art. For more information on Rosalind's work, please see www.rosalindlyons.com.

Siobhan Lyons is CELTA qualified, with an MA in Applied Linguistics and TESOL. She has taught English for several years in the UK, and previously in Italy where she lived for 20 years. Siobhan brings a wealth of linguistic experience and will be principally in charge of language tuition.
